An Old Time Radio Christmas

Picture if you will, a bustling winter day; the cold, crisp air; snow billowing about outside; a Christmas tree fully decorated with lights, garland, and ornaments; a family nestled together – warm and safe – around the radio in their home, listening to the Christmas songs we all know and love. These are the images An Old Time Radio Christmas will conjure. This show will take you back to the 1950s – an era when a lot of America’s most popular Christmas songs were created and enjoyed.

After a three-year hiatus, Jill Moody-Ledbetter is back in the director’s chair to bring us this merry, family-friendly, fun-filled show packed with songs, commercials, comedy readings, and Christmas stories of a much simpler time. This show will include several children participating as cast members, as well as some FSLT veterans, including: Angela Covey, Carole Rogers, Jim Moody, Steve Dwiggins, Nicole Bostick, Valerie Valentine, and Eric Wells – amidst a number of other very talented actors and actresses. Crew members include Neal Goodwin as the props master, and Cassie Mikel in the producer’s chair.

Join us for a very special night full of merriment, laughter, and music, which will be sure to leave you in the Christmas spirit with peace, love, and joy! An Old Time Radio Christmas is set to run Thursday, December 7th through Saturday, December 9th, 2017. Show time is 7:30 p.m. and the doors will open at 6:45 p.m. No reservations required, first-come-first-served seating, and tickets are $5 at the door. Let’s head back to the good ole days for some old-fashioned Christmas joy!
